

It was the end of a long day,
and the toys in x-ray decided
it was time to play!

“I’ve got an idea.”
Boing Bear said! “Let’s catapult things
off the top of my head...”

The dinosaurs called round the wards,
inviting any toys that
were lonely or bored.

The toys ran from their homes
and warm beds,

eager to watch their friends
being catapulted over their heads...

Hefty Hippo
insisted on being the first.

The crowd that had gathered feared the worst.

Hefty went up high, just like a plane.

BUT

as he hurtled
down,

he was heading for

PAIN!

It was bad.
It was sad.

Hefty had run out of luck.

On top of the cactus,
he was properly stuck.

Security got straight on the case,
using his Blackberry to assemble
the troops into place.

Hefty was rescued
and lifted to the ground.

Such a lot of fuss
for being stuck on a cactus!

The doctor was called to check he was ok.
(This really wasn't Hefty's lucky day.)

Dr. Bear spoke...
“We better x-ray you and
check nothing's broke.”

x-ray Room

Hefty was scared.
He'd never had an x-ray.

But Dr. Bear assured him,
and chased ALL his fears away.

(He explained that x-rays show what's inside.
Where your bones and your heart and your tummy reside.)

Hefty thought his x-ray was great.

But Dr. Bear couldn't believe all of the things that Hefty ate...

Can you count and identify what Hefty ate?

Remember: Just like an x-ray...

It's what's inside
that counts!